

Ben Reno-Weber

Ben Reno-Weber is the CEO of the Kentucky YMCA Youth Association, which runs the largest middle and high school civic engagement program in the country. Through these programs, the Y develops engaged citizens and servant leaders, inspired to affect change in their school, community, Commonwealth, nation, and world.

Ben is a Kentucky native and was a regular participant in the YMCA's civic engagement programs in middle school and high school. He graduated from George Washington University with a degree in International Affairs. After university, he worked for the World Bank in Washington DC and in the Balkans where he focused on microfinance and international development. He graduated the Harvard Kennedy School of Government and Harvard Business School before joining the Boston Consulting Group. He returned to Kentucky in 2010 to join the KY YMCA.