Next Week's Program...

Chef Ouita Michel believes in cooking that respects both the character of the ingredients and historic traditions. From her kitchen in the historic Holly Hill Inn in the heart of Bluegrass Horse Country, Chef Michel is dedicated to using locally grown meats, produce and cheeses in her signature dishes. As the summer returns, the Holly Inn menu changes to include what local farmers are delivering to the Inn's back door.

Ouita Michel is committed to the idea that richness and quality are found in traditional foods. She searches for ways to reinterpret dishes from Kentucky and around the world and is devoted to supporting local farmers. It's that "straight from the garden and what's old is new again" approach that Ouita says is the heart of the cuisine at Holly Hill Inn.

Born in Wyoming, Ouita and her family moved to cities such as New Orleans and San Juan, Puerto Rico, before settling in Lexington, Kentucky. There, the family tended a large garden that offered a bounty of fruits and vegetables, the backbone of her family's meals. Influenced by her mother's eclectic organic cooking and her grandmother's traditional recipes, Ouita developed her own culinary style. She believes in cooking that respects both the character of ingredients and historic traditions - "cooking with a purpose."

After graduating with a degree in political science from the University of Kentucky, where she was a national champion debate team member, Ouita moved to New York and worked in several restaurants before enrolling in the Culinary Institute of America. She graduated with honors as valedictorian of her class. There she met her husband, Chris, also an aspiring chef. Together they returned to Lexington, where Ouita honed her culinary skills as a sous chef for Dudley's Restaurant and as executive chef for Dupree Catering.

Ouita and Chris teamed up as managing partners to open Emmett's Restaurant in Lexington. As executive chef, Ouita prepared traditional Southern fare with a twist, marrying classic cooking techniques with traditional Kentucky foods.

Today, Ouita and Chris are keepers of the rich heritage of the Holly Hill Inn in Midway, which they bought in 2000. Purchasing the circa 1845 homestead and inn is a dream come true for Ouita, who has fond memories of the historic inn and is continuing its

This Week's Speaker...

The speaker for the day was Justice Bill Cunningham who spoke on the uniqueness of Kentucky. He was elected to serve on the Supreme Court of Kentucky in 2006, and is an author of six books about regional history which chronicle the struggle for racial justice in western Kentucky since the Civil War. He quoted several examples where Kentucky was the first, and he was inspired by the uniqueness of past leaders and their courage. He is the author of "A Distant Light: Kentucky's Journey Toward Racial Justice" where he exposes social injustices from Kentucky's bloody past and shows the journey to redemption through courageous leaders such as Governors A.O.

Stanley and Ned Breathitt. He shared several stories from his book, including the story of Guthrie Duggan, a Negro man accused of murder in Calloway County in Murray, Kentucky. Governor Stanley gave an eloquent speech with dignity and magnitude to protect the man from mob violence. It was a unique story of a past governor and how he had the courage to stand up for a Negro when race relations were so heated and volatile. The dark days of lynching and murders gave way to a brighter future through the efforts of those who were willing to stand for justice.

Visitors and Guests

Marcia Jeffreys' guest was Kyle Thompson; Sherrill Smith's guest was Rich Crowe; Barry Holder's guest was Laurey Holder; Dean Sorg's guest was Brandon Sorg; Sally Lanham's guest Sellus Wilder; Kit Walden's guests were Paula Cunningham and Susan Clary; Chief Justice John Minton was visiting from Bowling Green.

Adopt-A-Highway

The next Adopt-A-Highway program is set for Saturday, Sept. 13 at 9 AM behind the McDonald's on Versailles Road. Please bring gloves and good walking shoes. Garbage bags, poles, and vests will be provided. See Joe Johnson by the registration desk to sign-up.

Rotary Day at the Reds

Rotary Day at the Reds is Saturday, Sept. 20. Tickets are half price to Rotarians. See Joe Johnson if you wish to buy a ticket. We will not be taking a bus to this game.

Host Families Needed

The Frankfort/Franklin County Tourism Commission is looking for host families for the Japan/Kentucky Cultural Exchange to be held October 22-29. If you are interested in providing a room for one of these young people from Japan, please contact Joe Johnson at 695-4560 or the Tourism Commission at 875-8687.
