Watkins is UNA Speaker

Dick Watkins, a retired Lexmark development engineering manager, will address the Frankfort Chapter of the United Nations Association of the USA on Monday, March 23, in the Paul Sawyer Library Community Room at 6 p.m. His topic, "Sustaining Humanity Locally and Worldwide," will focus on how people in Frankfort and around the world need to be aware of the many complex interactions of various elements, such as religion, the environment, poverty, health, and education that will help determine how to create a better and more sustainable world. Bill Miller, president of the Frankfort Chapter UNA, said, "Dr. Watkins has developed one of the most interesting and comprehensive overviews that vividly demonstrates how people need to realize that the world is changing because of our actions, and he helps us identify what we need to do to make sure it survives." The meeting is free and open to the public.

Well Said...

Gold in its native state is but dull, unornamental stuff, and only lowborn metals excite the admiration of the ignorant with an ostentatious glitter. However, like the rest of the world, I still go on underrating men of gold and glorifying men of mica. -Mark Twain, author and humorist (1835-1910)

All men – whether they go by the name of Americans or Russians or Chinese or British or Malaysians or Indians or Africans – have obligations to one another that transcend their obligations to their sovereign societies. -Norman Cousins, author, editor, journalist and professor (1915-1990)
