CLASSIFICATIONS

The classification principle of membership distinguishes Rotary from all other organizations. By accepting the loan of a classification, each Rotarian assumes an obligation to represent his business or profession in the club and to share the ideal of service with non-Rotarians associated in the workplace. It assures a membership which is representative of the business, professional and institutional life of the locality in which the club is established.

CLASSIFICATION - The principal and recognized activity of a firm, company, institution, business or professional endeavor.

Classifications are determined by the activity or service to society rather than the position held by the individual. In other words, if president of a bank, a person is not classified under "Bank President" but under the classification of "Banking", or that person may be loaned the classification of the activity he or she is principally engaged in.

To be eligible for a specific classification, the proposed member should be generally recognized in the community as being primarily engaged in that business, profession or activity. In the fields of medicine, dentistry, law, etc. where specialization in a given field is recognized by a community, it is appropriate for the Rotary Club to establish and loan separate classifications to cover such specialized practices.

The Board of Directors of Rotary Clubs should annually update the listing of classifications in their community, showing the names of members and their classifications and the unfilled classifications that are open for membership. Rotary International publishes a list of classifications in a typical community, but clubs are urged to add to this listing and establish whatever classifications are needed in their area.

Balanced Membership: efforts should be made to maintain a well balanced membership in which no business or professional group predominates - allowing a club's membership to be representative of the business and professional life of the community.

FRANKFORTARIAN EDITOR CHANGE

Effective with the next issue of the Frankfortarian, Bill Leroy will assume the responsibilities of editor. Bill will do an outstanding job and we wish him well as he takes over the reigns of our newsletter.

I have been honored to have the opportunity to edit the newsletter as it has made it's transition to an electronic format. I'm especially proud of the changes we've made with the inclusion of pictures (A special thanks to Len Shirrell), and the special emphasis on forward looking news that has real value to Frankfort Rotarians.

Effective immediately, all Rotarians should forward their Frankfortarian targeted news to Bill.
