Leah W. MacSwords is the director of the Kentucky Division of Forestry in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources, the state agency responsible for forestry, mining, conservation, and natural areas programs.

Ms MacSwords is the first woman director in the division's 101-year history. She joined the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet (now the Energy and Environment Cabinet) in 1985 where her primary responsibilities were in the areas of environmental protection. In 1997, her responsibilities shifted to natural resources when she was appointed the deputy commissioner. In June 2001, she became the director and state forester.

Ms MacSwords was president of the National Association of State Foresters in 2008-2009, having previously served as vice-president and treasurer, and she has served as the chair of the Southern Group of State Foresters. She is a member of the Society of American Foresters, and she is a trustee for the National Arbor Day Foundation.

Ms MacSwords holds a Bachelor of Science with a biology major and chemistry minor from Murray State University. She graduated magna cum laude in 1975 and began her career teaching middle-school life and earth sciences.

Ms MacSwords is originally from Ballard County and now lives in Frankfort.

Peace Corps and Rotary kick off historic collaboration

From www.rotary.org

In an effort to promote global development and volunteer service, Rotary and Peace Corps have agreed to participate in a one-year pilot program in the Philippines, Thailand, and Togo. Under the agreement, Rotary clubs and Peace Corps volunteers are encouraged to share their resources and knowledge to boost the impact of development projects in those countries.

Opportunities for collaboration include supporting community projects, training, networking, and community education. Through the Peace Corps Partnership Program, Rotary clubs can continue to provide small grants to support volunteers and their communities.

Peace Corps Acting Director Carrie Hessler-Radelet and Rotary International General Secretary John Hewko signed the letter of collaboration on May 5 at Rotary's headquarters during a ceremony that was attended by RI President Ron Burton and RPCV Rotary staff. In his remarks to the audience, Burton applauded the collaboration and both organizations' commitments to service.

"Today's announcement is particularly meaningful for me because I come from a family of Rotarians," said Hessler-Radelet, referring to her father, grandfather, and aunt. "We are eager to join together in common efforts to inspire volunteerism across the country and around the world."

Hewko noted how both organizations are committed to improving lives and building stronger communities by addressing the root causes of violence and conflict, such as poverty, illiteracy, disease, and lack of access to clean water and sanitation.

The two organizations also agreed to explore expanding the collaboration to more countries based on the results of the pilot. Rotary will enlist the support of its members in recruiting Peace Corps volunteers and involving returned Peace Corps volunteers in service projects at home.
