ISSUE NO. 23

Next Week's Meeting...

Frankfort native and multi-sport athlete Anthony "Roni" Robinson was forced to take a hiatus from sports due to some bad decisions and spent 4½ years in the Kentucky correctional system as a result. Upon his return to society, he chose to further his education and continue chasing his dreams as a college athlete. He graduated from Kentucky State University and played all four years. He is currently second at KSU in rushing all time.

Robinson

Today he is the founder of Bridging the Gap and Just Grind Performance LLC. Their mission is to activate the performance of individuals through sports training, event planning and philanthropy. This mission will be achieved by using innovative and creative methods for individual or group success. They want to build upon a relationship between Kentucky State, Frankfort and Franklin County that's been underutilized. Our goal is to continuously reach out and provide events aimed towards our mission.

Roni is one of Wanda Robinson and Charles Dale's four children, is husband to Amber Robinson, and father to Anthony, Amyah, and Aliyana Robinson. He is a 1997 graduate of Franklin County High School, where he accumulated over 5,000 yards rushing in football and over 2,300 points in basketball. He was runner up for Mr. Basketball and a top-three finalist for Mr. Football.
