Next Week's Meeting...

Penny Peavler is a native of Frankfort and a member of the Downtown Rotary Club of Louisville. She serves as Executive Director, Interim, of the Capital Community Economic/Industrial Development Authority, Inc. which strives to improve the quality of life and prosperity of the community through retaining existing businesses and attracting new ones. She is the founding director of the Kentucky Distillers' Association's Kentucky Bourbon Trail Welcome Center. She was formerly CEO at the Frazier History Museum, the state's largest exhibiting history museum, which celebrates Kentucky as the one, true, authentic home of bourbon and hospitality. Peavler trained in business change and turnaround strategy at the Stanford Graduate School of Business. She worked 30 years in a variety of tourism, multi-family housing, construction, development, and hospitality industries before returning home to Frankfort, to serve as strategic initiatives consultant to the City of Frankfort, bringing cross-sector intelligence to the role. An instructor at Bellarmine University, Peavler is the Governor's nominee to the Kentucky Humanities Council.
