Next Week's Meeting...

Raised in a union household by a coal miner and a union worker, state Senate candidate Stella R. Pollard learned early the values of hard work, fairness, justice, and community. Growing up in Eastern Kentucky, she saw firsthand both the challenges working families face and the strength they draw from standing together. Those experiences shaped her commitment to advocating for working people and ensuring every family has the opportunity to succeed.

Pollard

For more than 12 years, Stella has proudly called Franklin County home. She is a wife, mother, educator, and technology leader who has dedicated her career to serving students, teachers, and families. Her work in public education has given her a deep understanding of the challenges facing Kentucky communities, from rising costs and healthcare concerns to housing affordability and access to opportunity. She understands what it means to stretch a paycheck, worry about the future, and work tirelessly to build a better life for the next generation.

Stella is running for the Kentucky Senate because she believes government should work for the people it serves. She is committed to strengthening public education, creating good-paying jobs, improving transportation infrastructure, expanding affordable healthcare and housing, investing in broadband access, and ensuring that the voices of everyday Kentuckians are heard in Frankfort.

Stella is not a career politician. She is a neighbor, community advocate, and public servant who is ready to fight for the families of Franklin, Owen, Gallatin, Carroll, Boone, and Kenton counties.
